

Beyond the Audiogram: Assessment and Treatment Challenges in Veterans with Self-Perceived Listening Difficulties, in partnership with University of Pittsburgh

David Jedlicka, AuD

References

- Jedlicka, D. P., & Zhen, L. (2023). PTSD is associated with self-perceived hearing handicap: An evaluation of comorbidities in Veterans with normal audiometric thresholds. Journal of the American Academy of Audiology, 34(09/10), 183–191. <https://doi.org/10.1055/a-2015-8524>
- Jedlicka, D. P., Bharadwaj, H., Morner, E., Parthasarathy, A., & Palmer, C. V. (2025). Evaluation of diagnostic measures in Veterans with self-perceived hearing handicap despite normal audiometric thresholds: A rapid scoping review. Journal of Speech, Language, and Hearing Research, 68(9), 4474–4489.
- Jedlicka, D. P., Bharadwaj, H. M., Morner, E., Parthasarathy, A., & Palmer, C. V. (2026). Hearing aid use in Veterans with hearing loss and Veterans with normal audiometric thresholds fit with hearing aids due to self-perceived hearing handicap. Journal of Speech, Language, and Hearing Research, 69(3), 1301–1311.
- Saunders, G. H., Field, D. L., & Haggard, M. P. (1992). A clinical test battery for obscure auditory dysfunction (OAD): Development, selection and use of tests. British Journal of Audiology, 26(1), 33–42. <https://doi.org/10.3109/03005369209077869>
- Tepe, V., Papesh, M., Russell, S., Lewis, M. S., Pryor, N., & Guillory, L. (2020). Acquired central auditory processing disorder in service members and Veterans. Journal of Speech, Language, and Hearing Research, 63(3), 834–857. https://doi.org/10.1044/2019_JSLHR-19-00293